The company

Alejandro Suárez has a long career in the tobacco world of Mexico. Previously a fashion and image consultant collaborating with world renowned brands like Hugo Boss, Gian Franco Ferrer, Ermenegildo Zegna and many others. He started exporting cigars to the United States in the 90's in the middle of the cigar boom. That's when his first brand Caballero cigar produced in the San Andre's Valley started partnering with Pablo Morales who is a wrapper producer in San Andres and currently associates with Miguel Turrent.

His company Cuesta Rey de Mexico is the current importer of world class brands including Arturo Fuente, Perdomo, Miami cigar, J.C. Newman and others. It has previously worked with other exporters such as Rocky Patel, Drew Estate etc. The Cuesta Cuesta Rey shops chain is the largest tobacco retail and cigar bar in the country (A Casa del Habano franchise and an Slabastida Lounge included). Cuesta Rey de Mexico is distribution is one of the 3 largest in the company serving all kinds of retailers throughout Mexico and with presence in Mexico City, Cancun, and Los Cabo's areas. SLABASTIDA CIGAR FACTORY In 2015 Alejandro relaunched his Caballero line blending a double habano cigar (Mexico and Nicaragua) medium strength with nutty and leathery notes. Then came Caballero 25 anniversary (launched in 2021) a delicate Connecticut Shade Ecuador (wrapper) cigar with fine and pale fillers coming from the Turrent and Morales crops in Mexico. Finally, SLABASTIDA cigar brand was launched in 2023 using his last name pay tribute to his Vesque country origins a Maduro and a Conn. Shade cigar were blended for the occasion. The first one with an oily wrapper from Miguel Turrent with fillers from the Oliva and Turrent farms is the flagship of the whole SLABASTIDA cigar portfolio, the second one, the Conn. Shade is a light to medium body cigar, stronger than the Caballero 25 conn. Delivering interesting notes of subtle white peppers, green grass who apport a little bit of freshness and the core note of cedar wood. All these lines are currently sold throughout Mexico and are ready to conquer export markets. the motto of the slabastida tobacco lines is:

- Hecho con las manos de mi tierra -

And stands with the profound pride that all the team has for the talent of the emerging Mexican culture, its color, art, architecture culinary tradition, denomination of origin spirits such as Mezcal and Tequila,
